610-614 Buchanan Street is located on two 40' x 82' lots on the east side of Buchanan Street, between Linden and Fell Streets. Built in 1889, 610-614 Buchanan Street is a 3-story, wood frame, multiple family building containing 6 flats designed in the Stick/Eastlake style. The T-plan building, clad in drop siding, sits on a reinforced concrete, perimeter foundation and is capped by a low gable roof. The primary façade faces west toward Buchanan St. and is 4 bays wide. The ground story features two straight flights of wood steps with turned balustrades leading to two recessed entry porches on the first story. There are two unit entrances with wood doors set under the stairs, accessed from street level via concrete steps. The left and right bays of the ground story feature semi-hexagonal bay windows with double-hung, wood sash and engaged columns. The excavated area around the ground story is lined with decorative iron fencing. The first story features two main entrances in the center bays, set in recesses with arched openings framed by paneled pilasters and door hoods with scroll-sawn brackets, and scroll sawn frieze panels with dentils. The right porch shelters two entrances fitted with paneled, glazed doors with transoms. The left porch has a single entrance with double-leaf, glazed wood doors. The end bays contain semi-hexagonal bay windows with arched, double-hung, wood sash; Corinthian colonnette surrounds; scroll sawn frieze panels; dentil cornices; and pent hipped roofs. P3a. Description, continued:

center bays of the second story features flush, double-hung, arched wood windows with shouldered arch surrounds capped by arched pediments. Each end bay of each story contains a chamfered bay window similar to those on the first story. The façade has paneled corner boards and paneled vertical bands dividing the bays. The façade terminates in a paneled frieze, bracketed cornice, and hipped pent roof clad in standing seam metal roofing. The center two bays have a low, chamfered arch pediment. The building appears to be in good condition. 610-614 Buchanan Street is identical to the adjacent property to the south at 618-622 Buchanan Street and is similar to the adjacent property to the north at 600-626 Buchanan Street.
