61 Laussat Street is located on a 25' x 40' lot on the south side of Laussat Street. It is a 2-story, wood-frame residential building designed in the Italianate style. The rectangular-plan building sits on a concrete foundation, is clad in wood shiplap siding and is capped by a flat roof. The primary window type is a one-over-one, double-hung, wood sash with lambs tongues. At the first story level, a pair of these windows is located on the east side of the façade. Above them, a square bay window (with a pair of the same type of windows) is located at the second story level. A single window, of the primary type is located on the west side of the façade, at the second story level, over the primary entry. The primary entry consists of a wood panel door, glazed with a stained glass Queen Anne window. The entry door is surmounted by a transom and flanked by wall panels. It is set within an inset vestibule that is covered by a prominent hood. Decorative features on the front facade include decorative trim, brackets, medallions, and hoods around door and window openings, fluted corner boards, a triangular panel element over the bay window, and a decorative entablature. This entablature consists of prominent moldings, a paneled frieze, brackets and an overhanging cornice. This building appears to be in excellent condition.
